Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 27 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Feeling cold before turning milder from Sunday.

Today:
A frosty start for many with perhaps a few icy surfaces too. The morning will see sunny spells and a few wintry showers before cloud thickens from the west through the afternoon. Windy at times and feeling cold. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Heavy rain will move in from the west through the evening, persisting through the night. Winds strengthening with coastal gales reaching further inland at times. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Sunday:
Cloudy with heavy rain persisting over the north of the region, however easing throughout the day further south. Remaining windy with coastal gales reaching further inland at times. Feeling milder. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Cloudy and damp on Monday before becoming clearer and brighter later. Dry with calm winds and plenty of sunshine on Tuesday and Wednesday. Feeling rather mild throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.